

Refund Policy

Effective Date: June 10, 2026

Overview

This Refund Policy governs purchases of subscriptions and premium services offered by VanPips.

By purchasing a subscription, you agree to this Refund Policy.

Subscription Fees

Subscription fees grant access to premium content, trading signals, educational resources, and related services for the selected subscription period.

Access is provided immediately after successful payment.

General Refund Policy

Because digital services are delivered immediately upon activation, subscription payments are generally non-refundable.

Once premium access has been granted, refunds will not normally be issued.

Exceptional Circumstances

Refund requests may be considered in limited circumstances, including:

- Duplicate payments
- Verified technical errors resulting in non-delivery of purchased services
- Unauthorized transactions subject to investigation

Approval of refunds remains at the sole discretion of VanPips where permitted by law.

Incorrect Purchases

Users are responsible for reviewing subscription plans and pricing before completing payment.

Accidental purchases or failure to use the service generally do not qualify for refunds.

Service Interruptions

Temporary service interruptions, maintenance periods, market closures, internet connectivity issues, or third-party provider outages do not automatically qualify for refunds.

Chargebacks

Users are encouraged to contact VanPips before initiating chargebacks or payment disputes.

Fraudulent or abusive chargeback activity may result in suspension or termination of accounts.

Refund Processing

If a refund is approved, processing times may vary depending on the payment provider and financial institution.

VanPips is not responsible for delays caused by third-party payment processors.
