

Risk Disclosure Statement

Effective Date: June 1, 2026

Important Notice

This Risk Disclosure Statement explains the risks associated with trading financial markets.

You should carefully read and understand these risks before using VanPips services.

No Guarantee of Profit

VanPips does not guarantee profits, successful trades, account growth, or positive investment outcomes.

Any examples, historical performance, analysis, or educational material should not be interpreted as guarantees of future results.

Market Risk

Financial markets are highly volatile.

Prices may change rapidly due to economic events, political developments, market sentiment, liquidity conditions, or unexpected news.

Losses can occur quickly.

Leverage Risk

Leveraged trading magnifies both profits and losses.

Small market movements can have a significant impact on trading accounts.

You may lose part or all of your investment.

Signal Risk

Trading signals provided by VanPips are educational and informational only.

Signals may:

- Fail to reach targets
- Reach stop-loss levels
- Produce losses

- Become invalid due to changing market conditions

Users are solely responsible for deciding whether to execute any trade.

Technology Risk

Internet outages, platform failures, software issues, mobile network interruptions, broker system failures, or technical errors may affect trading activity.

VanPips is not responsible for losses resulting from such events.

Psychological Risk

Emotional decision-making, overtrading, lack of discipline, and poor risk management can significantly increase losses.

Users are responsible for maintaining appropriate trading discipline.

Independent Decision-Making

You acknowledge that all trading decisions are made independently.

VanPips does not act as a financial advisor, portfolio manager, broker, or fiduciary.

Suitability

Trading may not be appropriate for all individuals.

You should assess your own financial circumstances and seek independent professional advice where appropriate.

Acknowledgment

By using VanPips, you acknowledge that:

- Trading involves substantial risk.
- Losses may exceed expectations.
- Past performance does not guarantee future results.
- You are solely responsible for your trading decisions and outcomes.